These will affect you in so many ways such as: Credit card applications; Loan applications (startup loans for your business, mortgage, home equity, auto loans, etc.); Insurance applications; House search and purchase/apartment search and rental; Car purchase; Phone contracts; Utilities; Job search. For the first five you can expect unfavorable deals as well as difficulty in applications. As businessmen, it is in their nature to assure that they will gain something out of the transaction. If they think you are trustworthy enough for them to invest in, they will lend you the money you need with certain conditions. These conditions include higher interest rates, higher insurance premiums, higher rental fees, low to no discount at all, lack of freebies, and so on. Your application, rental, and purchase may not be granted as well. In terms of utilities, denial of applications rarely happens. If it does, either you have done some serious violations or the company thinks you can't handle the bills.
