

The Multiple Abyss

Several inter-related factors are causing us to slide remorselessly towards a many-sided economic and financial, military and nuclear, environmental, social and religious abyss of which our national and world leaders seem almost unaware or, if they are aware, with which they have so far been unable to cope or even effectively address. Unlike the period before the Second World War, no current economic, social or political philosophy offers remedies. On the contrary, the dominant philosophy of a freedom approaching licence and dependence on armed might and violence to respond to national and international conflict and terrorism offer only to speed the journey along the road to catastrophe.
